HP Makes Generous Donation to Foundation

Hewlett-Packard, Inc. has donated technology equipment valued at $10,000 to the Community Foundation, allowing for the replacement of similar equipment donated by HP four years ago. In addition, the Community Foundation recently purchased two of the company's innovative netbooks and also equipped each of its eight workstations with dual monitors to advance the organization's move to paperless processing. The new HP equipment significantly expands the Community Foundation's ability to connect people to the nonprofit sector in ways that inform and inspire philanthropy and community involvement.
